Cambodian Palace Bomber Escaped

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — The Cambodian pilot who bombed President Lon Nol's palace, killing at least 36 persons but not the president, apparently made a successful getaway to Communist territory.

The Cambodian Air Force T28 fighter that Capt. So Potra used in the assassination attempt Saturday was last seen over Kompong Cham province, northeast of Phnom Penh. He was believed to have landed at an air strip in the two-thirds of Cambodia controlled by the Khmer Rouge, the country's Communist movement, and their North Vietnamese allies.

Potra was reported to be the lover of Princess Norodom Bopha, daughter of the chief of state deposed by Lon Nol, Prince Norodom Sihanouk. But some American sources suggested that Potra was angry because he had failed flight training.

Lon Nol in a broadcast charged that the assassination attempt was part of a Communist plot to overthrow his government.

Potra's bombs missed the presidential palace but hit the guards' compound nearby, razing more than 100 closely packed shacks. Searchers recovered 36 bodies, and more than 50 persons were injured. The bombing came amid mounting discontent over steeply rising prices, corruption and general war weariness. A few hours before the attack, a group of teachers and striking students held a public protest meeting, and militant rightists bombed it, killing two persons.

Phnom Penh was placed under an official state of siege and martial law today, with its foreign visitors and residents described as virtual prisoners following a weekend of bloody violence.

U. S. Proposal for Remaining 146 POWs

Sunday Release Sought

(Combined Wire Services)

SAIGON — The United States proposed today that North Vietnam advance the date for releasing the last remaining 146 American POWs to next Sunday, paralleling an acceleration of the exchange of prisoners by the two Vietnams.

A U.S. spokesman said the United States proposed that since repatriation of all Vietnamese POWs is due to finish next Sunday—three days ahead of the set deadline—that Hanoi free the final group of American POWs at the same time.

The spokesman said the proposal was made at a meeting of the four-party Joint Military Commission that arranges prisoner exchanges. He said Hanoi did not immediately reply.

The North Vietnamese promised Sunday that it would free the final 146 POWs by March 28, the deadline stipulated in the Paris truce agreement that also set March 28 as the deadline for the total withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam.

Col. Bui Tin, head of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Joint Military Commission said Hanoi would issue the details soon.

The United States halted the pullout of its remaining 6,308 troops pending the release of the names of the remaining captive Americans, 140 military men and six civilians, and the date and place of their release.

In combat, post-truce fighting persisted with the Saigon command reporting 126 Communist cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today.

A spokesman said the violations included the surrounding by Communist troops of two South Vietnamese camps north of Saigon. He said government helicopters were unable to take wounded troops out of the camps and said South Vietnam has asked for an immediate investigation by the Military Commission.

Meanwhile, U.S. intelligence sources report that military equipment has continued to flow from North Vietnam since President Nixon warned Hanoi to stop infiltrating South Vietnam.

"It's still going on," one source said. He indicated Sunday there has been no measurable slowdown of such movements in the wake of Nixon's statement last Thursday that the North Vietnamese "should not lightly disregard" U.S. expressions of concern.

Intelligence analysts estimate that the North Vietnamese have sent between 400 and 450 armored vehicles, including tanks, into South Vietnam in the less than two months since the Vietnam cease-fire.

U.S. officials view these and other movements as serious violations of the cease-fire agreement which forbids any shipment of military gear into South Vietnam except on a strictly limited basis under international supervision.

"We're not very sanguine about the international supervisory machinery working," a Pentagon official said.

Intelligence specialists say some of the new tanks reported in South Vietnam since the cease-fire came down from southern China, where they were stockpiled until the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam was halted.

According to fresh estimates, more than 1,100 trucks moved across the demilitarized zone from North Vietnam into South Vietnam in the week ended last Thursday, the day Nixon issued his warning to Hanoi.

In that same week, sources said, about 200 trucks rolled down the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in southern Laos.

Analysts said that some 10,000 tons of supplies have moved through one pass from North Vietnam into Laos since Feb. 1.

Pentagon officials disputed a claim by Ha Van Lau, the head of North Vietnam's Commission to Implement the Cease-Fire Agreement.

Lau said in Hanoi that the North Vietnamese are sending food, medicine and other non-military supplies, rather than war materiel, to the South.

Defense officials said U.S. reconnaissance cameras have photographed trucks loaded with ammunition boxes and fuel drums.

In Paris, Saigon opened full-scale political negotiations with the Viet Cong today by declaring there can be no free elections in South Vietnam as long as North Vietnam keeps armed forces in the South.

The political talks started at an 18th Century chateau at Celle-Saint-Cloud outside Paris that once belonged to Madame de Pompadour, famed mistress of King Louis XV.

'Final Ultimatum' From Indians

WOUNDED KNEE, S. D. (UPI) — Leaders of the American Indian Movement present their "final ultimatum" to government officials today in yet another negotiating session aimed at ending the siege of this historic hamlet.

The Indian ultimatum comes amidst growing combativeness among Indians occupying this historic hamlet, the scene of the last clash between the U.S. Cavalry and the Indians in 1890, in which between 200 and 300 Indians died.

A three-point government plan to end the occupation of Wounded Knee met with no response from militant Indians as it was read Sunday.

"It is clear that we are surrounded and will probably be massacred, but if we do we'll go down fighting," said Rocky Madrid, 26, San Luis, Colo., an AIM supporter wounded during an exchange of gunfire between Indians and government forces Saturday night. Madrid was carried on a stretcher to a meeting at the trading post where the government offer was read to about 200 Indian partisans.

AIM Leader Russell Means decried the government proposal as a request for "total capitulation" without guarantee that arrested Indians could be freed on bail.

"Our only recourse—the only strength we have left—is our treaty rights," Means said. Today's "final ultimatum" by the AIM leaders was to be based on the 1868 Fort Laramie Treaty, which confiscated most of the Sioux lands in the Plains and required the Sioux to move to reservations, such as Pine Ridge, on which Wounded Knee is located.

The government proposal, worked out in high level meetings in Washington, called for the occupiers of Wounded Knee to lay down their weapons and surrender peacefully to arrest. It also provided for meetings between Interior Department officials and AIM leaders to be held at Sioux Falls, followed by the arrest of the leaders and the most of the militants at Wounded Knee. Many Indians vowed to remain and die rather than submit to arrest.

The government offer was presented to AIM leader Dennis Banks at a government roadblock by Harlington Wood, the Justice Department's top negotiator with AIM. Wood told Banks the three-pronged proposal was "the best I could do."

In Syracuse, one of the top chiefs of the Oglala Sioux, currently embroiled in a controversy with the federal government in South Dakota, met Sunday night with leaders of the Onondaga Indians at the nearby Onondaga Reservation.

Frank Foolscrow and four others conferred in the reservation's "long house." Interviewed after the meeting, the elderly chief said, through an interpreter, that the Indians confronting authorities near Wounded Knee, S.D., "Want the Indian bureau (the federal Bureau of Indian Affairs) abolished."

On the agenda will be discussion of North-South Arterial Highway, pedestrian safety in the City of Kingston; possible town grants for safety aids; bicycle and motorcycle safety programs; Rondout Creek Bridge detour; and general safety measures. William Trappell, chairman will preside. Full attendance of board members is anticipated.

Iceland Volcano Erupts Again; Hits 8 Houses

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP)—Iceland's rumbling Helgafell Volcano spewed up more lava Sunday and engulfed eight houses on Heymaey Island. The destruction brought to 149 the number of homes wrecked by lava or ash on the outskirts of the evacuated town. About 400 persons remain on Heymaey for salvage work. The others left when the once-thought extinct volcano erupted in January. Those remaining have slowed the flow of lava toward the town by pumping water on it to speed up the hardening process.

Store Open

It was incorrectly reported in the March 14 Daily Freeman that former Ardonia Postmaster Kurt Laser had closed his store when he retired as postmaster. Laser's general store is still open for business.

List Six New 'Y' Board Members

KINGSTON Directors of the Kingston Area Library. Mrs. Pitcock is director of Volunteer Services at Kingston Hospital. Spring Cleanup Set by City DPW

KINGSTON The Kingston Department of Public Works is conducting "on-site" point of pickup grinding of small tree limbs, shrubs, and yard trimmings in the interest of re-cycling and conservation, according to Superintendent of Public Works Charles Cole. Cole noted that the department owns only one grinding machine, and he asked for "public patience and cooperation" should the material not be processed on a regular refuse collection day. The superintendent reminded city residents of strict air pollution control laws which prohibit the disposal by burning of any material including forestry products.

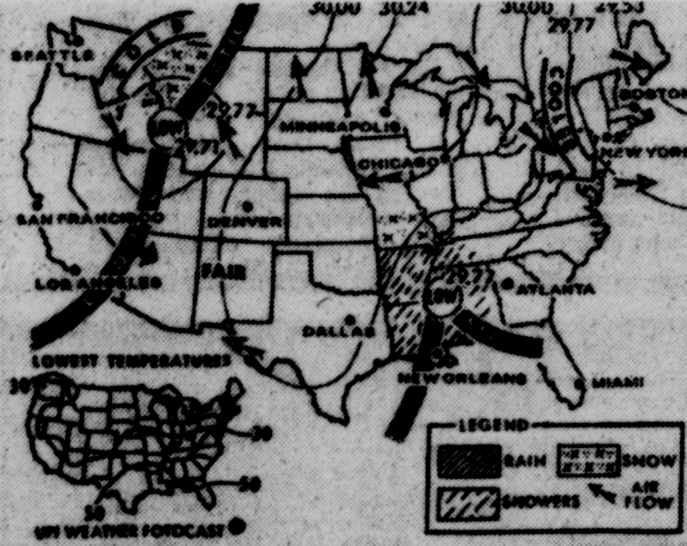

Savago Cancels Legislature Meet

KINGSTON A special meeting of the Ulster County Legislature to ratify a contract between the county and Ulster County Community College's Organization of Professional Administrative Personnel called for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the County Office Building, has been cancelled by chairman Peter J. Savago. A public hearing of proposed tax exemptions for senior citizens will be held at 8 p.m., Wednesday.

Rep. Mills 'Not Satisfied' With Phase III

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., believes the administration will have to replace its Phase III economic program with the tougher controls of a Phase IV if inflation is to be controlled. Mills, the influential chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said Sunday he was "not satisfied" with Phase III, which relies largely on voluntary wage-price guidelines.

The Arkansas Democrat said he was worried not only about food prices but about prices in other areas.

"I can see areas of products sold in department stores where there may be as much as a 25 per cent increase over last fall," Mills said.

"I think we are going to have another phase program called, I guess, Phase IV that will be more effective than Phase III has so far proven to be. I am not satisfied with the product."

Mills was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press." The Senate scheduled consideration today of a bill that would extend for one year President Nixon's authority to impose wage and price controls. The authority, included in the Economic Stabilization Act, expires April 30.

Critics of Nixon's Phase III policies planned to offer tough anti-inflation amendments. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield predicted many amendments would be introduced, most of them seeking tighter controls than exist under Phase III. Phase I imposed a freeze on wages and prices, while Phase II placed strict controls on all increases.

One amendment was drafted by Sen. George S. McGovern, (D-S.D.). It would require the President to control the prices of any firm which benefits from wage controls, and it would allow only price increases which reflect a net increase in the cost of production.

McGovern contends the strict controls under Phase I and II "resulted in stagnant real income for working people and expanding profits for business."

Samuels Seeks Republican Support To Halt Takeover of State OTB

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of the city's Off Track Betting Corp. says Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has enough votes in the state legislature to take over the OTB.

OTB Chairman Howard Samuels said Sunday that the state would win control "unless we can get support from sensible Republicans who are concerned about the needs of municipalities throughout the state."

Getting that support is a "long shot," Samuels said.

Albany's operation of all off track betting in the state was one of the recommendations last week of a Rockefeller-appointed commission headed by former Consolidated Edison official Charles Delafield, who declined to appear with Samuels on the WNBC-TV "Sunday" program.

Samuels said the commission's suggestions included the imposition of a five per cent tax on off track bets and a $23 million "bonanza" for Yonkers, Roosevelt, Aqueduct and Belmont racetracks, with only $5 million earmarked for purses.

Those responsible for the report "did not look at the facts," but designed the proposals to enrich the tracks, Samuels said. They were "incompetent" or "politically motivated," he charged, noting his status as a past—and potential—Democratic gubernatorial nominee.

He also complained that one commission member, New York Mets board chairman M.

Donald Grant, was employed by Mets owner Joan Payson, who also owns a stable of racehorses. Another member, Fred Capossela, is a former race-track announcer who receives a pension from the New York Racing Association, the race-track owners' organization. The other commission members were Rockefeller intimates, Samuels said.

"The report is anti-city, a windfall to special interests. It's the biggest giveaway since the sale of Manhattan for $24," Samuels said.

Track attendance has fallen off since the OTB set up shop, but its effect on track revenues has been "minimal," Samuels said.

Later Sunday, Assembly Speaker Perry Duryea, R-Montauk, agreed that OTB was not "the big villain" in the tracks' problems, but added that Samuels' organization should have returned more of its profits to the tracks.

However, the proposed tax on off track bets would "generate far too much money," and a state superagency might not be the best way to handle off track betting, Duryea said on the WABC Radio "Press Conference" program.

House Panel Plans Meeting On ITT Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House panel is weighing whether to release a secret summary of reportedly "politically sensitive" papers that the Securities and Exchange Commission got by subpoena in a probe of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

In the aftermath of weekend reports by columnist Jack Anderson that the SEC summary says several high-level present and past Nixon administration officials are named in the ITT papers, the House Commerce Committee's special investigations subcommittee planned a closed meeting today.

The subcommittee voted last week to make the confidential summary public today unless the Justice Department and SEC presented, in writing, "a clear and compelling statement" that disclosure would prejudice rights of any person or firm.

Anderson reported Sunday that the ITT papers contain claims that contradict former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell's sworn testimony last year to the Senate Judiciary Committee. He wrote: "We read to Mitchell the summaries of the ITT memos and he repeated the denials he had made under oath."

Anderson also said the summaries mention the names of President Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Nixon adviser John Ehrlichman, former White House aide Charles Colson, ex-Treasury Secretary John Connally, former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans and Peter Peterson, Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst and former Asst. Atty. Gen. Richard McLaren.

The columnist said summaries show ITT chief executive Harold Geneen visited Washington in early August 1970 to deal with antitrust matters, and the trip, "according to the memos, was to bring pressure on Richard McLaren, then the antitrust chief (at the Justice Department) to stop prosecution."

U.S. Dollar Moves Strongly

The floating American dollar moved up strongly in brisk trading today as the world's foreign exchanges reopened after a two-week shutdown.

In Frankfurt, London, Zurich and Tokyo, the U.S. currency rose above the rates quoted in bank-to-bank trading Friday.

But some centers reported trading was nervous as money operators awaited indications whether the two-month-old monetary crisis had been ended by the decisions taken by finance ministers of the major trading nations in Paris on Friday.

The Paris agreement set all major currencies to float freely in relation to the dollar as a result of supply and demand forces in the market place.

The move, putting an end to the 29-year-old Bretton Woods system of fixed parties, means no state bank is committed any longer to support the dollar at a fixed value. For an indefinite period, "speculators will speculate against speculators" and not against state banks, as one American informant put it.

In the key Frankfurt market, the dollar opened at 2.8350 marks, 1.5 pennings above Friday's.

The dollar was up sharply in Zurich also, opening at 3.2650 Swiss francs from Friday's 3.2325.

In London, the pound slumped from Friday's $2.4610 to $2.45, then steadied at 2.4510. At the close of business on March 2, the last day the exchanges were open, the pound closed at $2.50.

The price of gold, which soared to a record $95 an ounce at the peak of the money crisis, was $81 in Zurich and London, the two major European markets. This was down $1.50 from the price Friday and $1.75 in London.

This is the first time since World War II that the dollar has been free to find its own value without central banks buying and selling to maintain a bottom price.

THE SAUGERTIES VILLAGE PARTY ANSWERS SOME QUESTIONS

1. Independent Taxpayer's Robert Gardner's question:

Why did the village buy an ambulance plus the cost of putting it in operation and waste the taxpayer's money?

Village Board's Answer

Because the ambulance service was in danger of losing a place from which to operate and could leave the village, we felt to protect our residents, we should purchase an ambulance. No money was spent on putting it into operation. Mr. Gardner never attended a Village Board meeting. No wonder he didn't know!

2. Erica Hinchey's question:

Why do we not have a dog ordinance but allow dogs to run free?

Village Board Answer

We have long been concerned about the dog problem. We now have an ordinance and are waiting for the Town to build their pound. It has to be a joint Village-Town venture, enforced by both, to eliminate the dog problem. Mrs. Hinchey has never attended a Village Board meeting. No wonder she doesn't know!

3. Joe Benjamin—Charges, Charges!

Mr. Benjamin's remarks, perhaps written by a behind-the-scenes author with Joe's name attached, are full of errors.

Village Board Answer

Joe was made, at his own request, a Village Board member. He served for ten days, could not take the pressure of office and quit. He could not stand the late night calls of the Police Department which he himself had ordered as Police Commissioner. Will he quit again?

4. Anthony Hackett—Charge

The Village Board shows lack of good judgment and wasteful spending.

Village Board Answer

Mr. Hackett was a member of the Village Planning Board. He never attended one of their meetings nor a meeting of the Village Board.

Village Board—Our Record

Look at the low tax rate. Look at your Village Fire Department, the best. Look at your Street Department, the best. Look at your up-to-date Police Department. Look at your beautiful Seamen Park.

Do you taxpayers feel all this progress could have been accomplished by making do with what we had ten years ago as the opposition suggests? Progress is made by effort and by capable men who are willing to put forth such effort.

saving somewhere else,
ask yourself why.

Why, when Heritage Savings Bank offers the highest interest rates you can get from a bank. Higher than half the banks in Kingston. Why, when on top of that, we offer this unique package of services to all Heritage Savings Bank depositors: free money orders, a direct line to low cost Savings Bank Life Insurance, postage-paid banking by mail, safe deposit boxes, and our copyrighted Perpetual Money Plan.

Why, when Heritage Savings Bank's offices are two of the most convenient offices. One in the heart of uptown Kingston, with its own walk-up window and adjacent parking lot. And the other right on route 9W, in the Town of Ulster, with a drive-in window. More people save at Heritage Savings Bank. Ask them why.

Memorial

In memory of Ronald Rowles who passed away March 19 and Cheryl Rowles who passed away March 21, three years ago. The fairest lilies are the first to fall.

The sweetest first to fade, The fondest, dearest, best of all, At peaceful rest is laid. But in God's garden free from pain.

Where grows His fairest flowers, We know that we shall meet again.

This fairest bloom of ours, MOMMY and DADDY, SISTERS and BROTHERS

Memorial

In loving memory of our father and grandfather, Joseph F. Naccarato on his birthday, March 19.

He wished no one a last farewell. Nor even said goodbye. He was gone before we knew it. And only God knows why. His busy hands are resting now.

His work on earth is done, His worries are all over. His heavenly crown is won. It only takes a little space To write how much we miss him. But it will take the rest of our lives

To forget the day we lost him. LOVING CHILDREN, And GRANDCHILDREN

Memorial

In memory of Ronnie and Cheryl Rowles who passed away three years ago. When God calls little children, To dwell with him above, We mortals sometimes question, The wisdom of His love. God knows how much we need them.

And so He takes but few, To make the land of Heaven, More beautiful to view, Believing this is difficult, Still somehow we must try, For the saddest word in all the world,

Will always be "Goodbye." When our two little ones left, We who were left behind, Try to realize God loves children. Angels are hard to find.

Three Jurors Are Excused

KINGSTON
The murder trial of Jack Duane Lewis of New Paltz, charged in the death of 17-year-old Colleen Thurin of Kingston last August, began in County Court this morning, with three prospective jurors quickly eliminated during the first few minutes of the trial.

By consent of both the prosecution and the defense, a former co-worker of the dead girl's father, a correction officer at Walkkill prison where Lewis previously served a sentence and a woman whose daughter lived in the same apartment complex as Lewis in New Paltz, were all excused. They indicated they did not feel that they could make a fair judgement in the case.

Judge Raymond J. Mino is presiding. District Attorney Francis J. Vogt, assisted by first assistant Ellen G. Donovan, is prosecuting the case. Robert Ricken is counsel for Lewis.

Driver Charged After Accident

TOWN OF SHANDAKEN
A 48-year-old Phenicia man was listed in fair condition today at Benedictine Hospital, suffering from injuries incurred in a one-car mishap on Route 28 in the Town of Shandaken early Sunday.

Hurley State Police, who investigated, said Frank Low of Woodland Valley Road was injured when the vehicle he was operating ran off the right side of the road west of the Route 214 intersection and proceeded down an embankment.

Low was issued a citation for driving while intoxicated, police said.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened lower today as investors gave their initial reactions to the sharp boost by two major banks in their prime lending rates.

The Dow Jones industrial average was down a fraction, and declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by a fair margin.

Quotations by Loeb, Rhoades and Co., members of New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange, Kingston Plaza, Kingston, N. Y. Joseph Garvill, resident manager. Phone 331-1900.

Police Probe School Entry

KINGSTON City detectives are investigating a reported entry at the George Washington School, 67 Washington Avenue. The entry, which was reported by a janitor Sunday morning, apparently occurred sometime Saturday night. No evidence of forced entry was found, detectives said, but a mail safe in one of the offices was pried open, and several items had been entered. Nothing has been reported missing, however, detectives said.

Tax Action Day

Testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee on tax reform has warned that there will be a tax revolt over the federal income tax, and one group has set a date for it, April 16 for "Tax Action Day." This is a new organization, "Tax Action Campaign" started by former Oklahoma Senator Fred R. Harris to mobilize reform sentiment over the country with rallies the day after the deadline for filing personal tax returns.

As part of its propaganda, Tax Action Campaign is citing a corporate "tax avoider of the week." One sample is the Aluminum Company of America. Harris said Alcoa made $50 million in 1971 but did not pay a cent in federal income taxes. Many corporations and individuals paid no tax in a specific year for legitimate reasons, due to previous payments or other features of the intricate tax laws, but the complaining organizations say that the tax burden is weighted against the middle and lower incomes.

Casper W. Weinberger, former head of the budget and now Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, argued strongly that the share of the gross national product that is devoted to government is now more than 34 per cent. "It just seems to me that when you get a third of the whole national effort devoted to government, it becomes increasingly difficult to maintain a viable, effective private sector."

Most would agree with that statement. The difference is about where the taxes come from. This is the argument Congress may have to settle.

PERMANENT RESIDENT — A law allowing permanent residence to aliens entering the United States and its territories before June 30, 1948 was invoked by Shoichi Yokoi, the former Japanese army sergeant who hid in a cave in Guam for 28 years. He had no trouble proving continuous residence and good moral character. He had been out of sight all those years.

CAMPAIGN GRAVY — And now a bill to get the federal government to pay the campaign costs for all congressional candidates—a dime for Senate candidates for each person of voting age in their states; 15 cents for the general election campaign. House candidates, too.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Visiting foreign dignitaries have been affronted by American military bands, which have hit the wrong notes in their national anthems. For the official U.S. arrangements of many foreign anthems contain blaring musical errors.

Only the keen eye of a Navy musician, for example, prevented a national insult to the Red Chinese. He found mistakes that would have made the official U.S. rendering of China's anthem sound like a grammar school recital.

But false notes in the Netherlands anthem, unhappily, weren't caught in time. A Netherlands delegate to a high-level NATO ceremony at Norfolk, Va., last year winced as a U.S. military band blared out the wrong notes.

With commendable restraint, the Dutch delegate murmured a mild objection to an American colleague. A quick investigation revealed errors in the official printed score. The unintended insult was particularly upsetting because the Dutch anthem is the "dean of anthems." It's the oldest still in use, based on a 16th century folk tune.

Sour Notes
To prevent another fortissimo fiasco, the Navy worked quietly with the Netherlands embassy to arrange a new score without the offending notes. But sources with an ear for music tell us there are more sour notes in the Navy's arrangements, which are used by other military bands and circulated unofficially to music stores, college bands and even bands in foreign lands.

We called upon the National Symphony's anthem arranger, Dr. Victor King, to check over a few of the more than 100 anthems published at the taxpayers' expense. He found errors ranging from false notes to missing slurs. There were even some improperly constructed chords.

King, who has arranged and published 158 national anthems, told us he feared the errors would reach the hundreds if he went through the Navy's entire portfolio.

His survey for us showed that in the controversial West German anthem, "Deutschland Lied," better known to Americans as "Deutschland Uber Alles," the timing is off in the baritone horn part.

Dubious Renderings
The Hungarian anthem has several false notes and a wrong chord in the conductor's score, among other mistakes and dubious renderings. The parts for saxophones, horns, trombones and oboes all have mistakes.

The Polish hymn, for which the proud Poles have been willing to shed blood, was published with a false note and renderings that even the Navy now listens to with a critical ear.

Some of the musical misprints, we learned, have been corrected by errata sheets, which unfortunately haven't caught up with the original erroneous scores.

The Navy's ill-fated venture into anthem publishing dates back to the 1940's when there were more than a thousand service bands. Each needed arrangements to serenade the foreign dignitaries who visited their bases. The Navy tried to oblige.

The problems were enormous. Some lands had only piano scores, some only piano scores in do-re-mis. Others used instruments unknown to American bands such as "pistons," a sort of cornet.

Too Much
The South American scores were for cavalry bands, thus had no parts for flutes, bassoons, slide trombones and other instruments played with two hands.

From dozens of mushrooming new nations came anthems of all musical varieties. It was simply too much for the Navy which is geared to man battleships, not wield grace-note pens.

An effort was made in 1956 to catch and correct some of the sour notes. Now Commander C. C. Owens, who took charge of the anthems a year ago, is working gamely to complete the corrections. But meanwhile, he hopes visiting potentates don't have a musical ear.

Footnote: The Navy insists Dr. King's findings for us are "nipping," but admits its anthems contain false notes and other errors. Most couldn't be caught, says the Navy, even by the trained ear. An independent expert, unimpressed, contends the Star Spangled Banner is played differently by various U.S. service bands and no one complains.

Transit Troubles
Battling Bella Abzug, the congresswoman from New York, is trying to siphon money from the Highway Trust Fund to build mass transit systems.

Over the years, more than $50 billion has gone into the Highway Trust Fund for building and repairing highways. Ms. Abzug believes the money is more urgently needed to relieve the traffic congestion in our cities.

Her bill to open the highway satchels was snagged last year in the House Transportation Subcommittee. Committee members have now given her assurances, however, that the bill will be approved by the subcommittee this year. This should clear the way for mass transportation funding up to $2 billion a year.

Inside Report

Connally's Travels

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — During a 90-minute private conversation with austere King Feisal of Saudi Arabia last December, John B. Connally heard almost nothing except an impassioned attack on "the international Zionist conspiracy."

The anti-Israeli diatribe, familiar to all Westerners who know the King and have been exposed to his bitterness about Israel's absorption of Palestine, stunned Connally.

More important, however, is the fact that top Israeli officials were distinctly unhappy about Connally's visit which, despite denials by Connally spokesmen, was definitely a business trip.

Connally not only flew to Saudi Arabia in an Occidental Petroleum Gulfstream Two jet with Occidental chairman Dr. Armand Hammer but introduced Dr. Hammer to King Feisal's powerful petroleum minister, Dr. Vakiyamami.

Vakiyamami was distressed by Connally's unsubtle approach to the Saudi government, apparently to get Occidental a piece of Saudi Arabia's vastly lucrative oil action. By contrast, King Feisal was favorably impressed with Connally.

The fact that Connally personally escorted Dr. Hammer to the petroleum minister's office seems a flat contradiction of an Occidental spokesman who told us Connally "was not there on Occidental business."

Even President Nixon's effort to rescue Connally (expected to convert to the Republican party soon and perhaps wind up as Mr. Nixon's Republican presidential choice in 1976) failed to satisfy U.S. oilmen fearful that Connally is using his intimacy with Nixon to advance the interests of his client.

Last week, the President said "of course" Connally's world travels were "in his private capacity as an attorney," although he "has undertaken some informal discussions with leaders" at Mr. Nixon's request.

A footnote: Israeli leaders, suspicious of close relations between big business in the U.S. and oil-rich Arab states, are fearful that Connally's private dealings on behalf of Occidental and other oil companies his law firm represents could weaken Israel's pervasive political influence over the Middle East policy of all U.S. politicians with presidential ambitions.

Strauss the Conciliator
Efforts to split off liberal members of the Democratic National Committee into permanent opposition to party chairman Robert S. Strauss suffered a major setback when his meeting with the new ultra-liberal Democratic state chairman of California, Assemblyman John Burton, resulted in conciliation.

Strauss's strategy has been to gently shove the party toward the center by adding moderates to party commissions and the National Committee while developing warm personal relationships with liberals such as Burton. In contrast, a new organization called the Democratic Planning Group (DPG) is trying to serve as anti-Strauss opposition within the National Committee and its commission.

Consequently, before Burton met with Strauss Alan Baron, a liberal-activist operative who formed and runs the DPG, asked Burton for an appointment.

The meeting got off on the wrong foot when Baron learned that sitting in would be Joe Cerrell, a veteran party pro from Los Angeles who managed Sen. Hubert Humphrey's California primary campaign last year and arranged Burton's meeting with Strauss. Cerrell is not philosophically reliable, Baron argued. Burton insisted that Cerrell sit in.

Over coffee at the Madison Hotel, Baron prompted Burton on how to handle Strauss; demand veto power over California appointments; block labor and other anti-McGovern Democrats from party organs; fight emergence of the reform commissions.

But when Burton saw Strauss a half hour later, he ignored Baron's proposals. For his part, Strauss told Burton he respects him as the chairman in the largest state. Would Burton like more Californians added to the charter commission? There and then, Strauss and Burton agreed on names.

Lindsay's Low Polls

A private poll completed last month for a major Republican figure showed Mayor John V. Lindsay 16th in a field of 16 possible New York City mayoral candidates in terms of raw popularity. On a scale of zero to 10, top-ranking Bess Myerson (city commissioner of consumer affairs) had a rating of 7.2 among the 494 citywide voters. At bottom was Lindsay, at 4.5 - a seemingly flat contradiction to the mayor's statement that he could have won a third term but decided not to run for personal reasons.

BERRY'S WORLD

"What does this new baseball term, 'switch over,' mean?"

Much More Than Mom and Pop

The children with the best adjustment to life are found in orphanages. It comes not from discipline or harsh treatment, but because the child's world is not confined to two parents, but to many. The child who grows in a world of diversified adults — teachers, room monitors, supervisors, playground athletes, and a wide range of friends — can drink love from many fountains.

There is a dark man with amile-wrinkled eyes at Children's Hospital in Boston who comes closer to appreciating the world of growing up than anyone I know. He is Dr. Graham B. Blaine, Jr., psychiatrist. He wears a gold pin in his shirt collar and his tie is slightly askew, but his head isn't.

His passionate interest in life styles is well known. Next week, he will publish a book called "Are Parents Bad For Children?" It sounds like a pejorative, but Dr. Blaine admires parents as much as he does youngsters. He feels that our children should not be confined to a world of parents and brothers and sisters, to the exclusion of others.

In his work, Blaine says: "I was aware of a growing conviction that something was drastically wrong with the way we are bringing up our children. These young people seemed to be embarking on adult life guided only by their rejection of the values and goals of their parents."

Rejection. An accurate word. It seems as though teenagers sift their parents' minds to learn what to treat with contempt. The human family is designed for love and harmony. Today it produces dropouts, disaffection, drugs and loneliness. And yet, almost all parents try — each according to his talents — to be good mothers and fathers. The trouble with parenthood is that it is controlled by amateurs.

Few couples study the married state. Many find it difficult to adjust to each other, without dwelling on their responsibilities to an infant. And yet, as Dr. Blaine points out, parents with a sense of guilt are even less effective than those who keep trying.

"Rather than berate them for not having talents they were not born with, rather than ask the impossible from them in terms of changing their most basic feelings, attitudes and values, we should begin to admit what is obviously the truth — that almost every parent is trying to be a good parent."

Love? Discipline? These are the ingredients, but how much of each? "A mother with a migraine headache," says Blaine, "worried sick over a child in bed with pneumonia, cannot be lovingly sympathetic when another child stumbles over the cat and spills a glass of milk on her baby sister's head. At another time, she could be."

Some parents feel love but cannot display it. Some children are huggers and some are kickers. It is easy for daddy to "smooch" with the cute huggers, but he turns away from the kicker, who has temper tantrums. Younger children in big families often do better than older brothers and sisters. This is because the young ones have a larger world of "big people" from which to solicit love.

Blaine favors bringing the grandparents back into the family picture. They too have something to offer children. This is true of aunts and uncles, most of whom are seen only on holidays.

The father who aspires to leave "something" to his youngsters is an industrious failure. The mother who tries to indoctrinate higher moral values than she practices is equally wrong. Many parents set high rewards on good school marks. In a mediocre student, this could induce a breakdown.

Fear of failure — morally or materially — forces many of our young to turn to what we call the drug culture. It's an easy escape from facing impossible goals. It promises relief from tension and, more important, acceptance by school friends. This is a love substitute.

If the parents do not encourage disagreement in table conversation, the kids remain silent. A father cannot relate to a young boy by patting him on the head and saying: "O.K., son. What's on your mind? We have five minutes." The magnetic silence of the family around the television set is not togetherness. It's an assortment of separate worlds.

Dr. Blaine thinks the child's sphere should be enlarged with more relatives, teachers, neighborhood friends so that each little boy and girl can seek understanding from many sources. The idea is to spread the responsibility.

The saddest thing, the doctor says, is for a child to come home from school, open the front door, and yell "Hello!" to an empty house

Council Meets Tonight on Reapport

KINGSTON and Tenth Wards into the "new" leader of the Council, charged Ward) and Edmond Roux (R-Ninth) and parts of the present legal" because Quick's Reapportionment Committee has not met to consider a plan. Quick responded to that by stating that the Democratic members of his committee had seen the plan, charter requires a local law. A local law must be read twice to the Council then has to "lie on their desks" for seven days before the actual vote.

The aldermen will convene tonight at 9 o'clock, hear the first reading of the local law (reapportionment), recess briefly, hear the second reading Council. The Republicans have and then recess at the call of a full slate of candidates but President T. Robert Gallo. They those candidates were nominated under the 13-ward "Sims Plan."

Quick told The Freeman today that his plan, which has the ocratic Convention, originally approval of Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Gallo, allows for held "the first week in April," "about 2,300" persons in each of 11 wards with a deviation from that average of "five per cent." As a result of that low deviation factor, Quick said, a referendum on the city plan will not be possible.

Republican members of the Common Council will be getting their first look at the "Quick Plan" for reapportionment of the city when the Council meets tonight at 9 o'clock in special session at city hall.

The "Quick Plan" drawn up by Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of the Council's Special Committee on Reapportionment, reduces the current 13 wards to 11, combining most of the present Ninth

Two Men Jailed After Holdup

RHINEBECK, 29, both of Beacon, Lindley was also charged with driving while intoxicated.

Further charges of violation of the State Conservation Law are pending, police said, explaining that a loaded .22 calibre rifle was found in the vehicle.

The robbery occurred at approximately 6:30 p. m., according to Rhinebeck State Police, who were called in to investigate. Police said two men entered Schermerhorn's Pharmacy at 19 East Market Street with a .22 calibre rifle and made off with $40 in cash. The two men reportedly left the scene in a vehicle.

A short time later, Claverack State Police stopped a vehicle in the Columbia County township of Livingston and arrested its two occupants.

Taken into custody on charges of robbery in the first degree, a felony, were Donald B. Lindley, 33, and William T. Cook.

KINGSTON to the three misdemeanor charges. He was released on $300 bail pending a re-arrest on Tuesday for sentencing on the misdemeanor charges and a preliminary hearing on the felony (criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the fourth degree) charge.

A short time later Deputies Kniffen and Herbert O'Brien allegedly observed a marijuana cigarette in the possession of Suzanne Alfandari, 19, of Lido Beach, N. Y., while checking her identification.

She was arrested and charged with criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the sixth degree, a misdemeanor.

Arraigned before Town of Kingston Justice Albrecht, the girl pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to five days in jail or a $25 fine. She paid the fine and was released.

What Do Many Doctors Use When They Suffer Pain Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues?

Exclusive Formula Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief In Many Cases from Such Pain. Also Helps Shrink Swelling of Such Tissues Due to Infection.

In a survey, doctors were asked what they use to relieve such painful symptoms. Many of the doctors reporting said they either use Preparation H themselves or in their office practice. Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief for hours in many cases from pain, itching in hemorrhoidal tissues. And it actually helps shrink painful swelling of such tissues when infected and inflamed. Just see if doctor-tested Preparation H doesn't help you. Ointment or suppositories.

Who has the best policy for you?
New York Life believes there are some significant differences between life insurance companies.

Some people think that one life insurance company is pretty much like the next one. Similar policies. Similar services. Well, we don't agree, and it could be worth your while to read about the things that set New York Life apart.

First, ours is a mutual company. No stockholders. Dividends are paid only to our policyowners. And, we've paid a dividend every single year for well over a century. Yes, New York Life is long-established and one of the largest life insurance companies in the world. We have offices in every state, Canada and Puerto Rico.

But there's one thing more. You might call it an attitude or a philosophy. And it's summed up in the word "excellence."

To us, that means striving for the best possible performance at all times in the service of our policyowners. It means a constant effort to serve you well in every way, to fully live up to the trust you and your family place in us.

That's why New York Life Agents are so carefully selected and trained. In fact, they're so highly regarded by their clients that most of our new business comes from existing policyowners and from friends they refer to us.

We think that says a lot. Why not talk to your New York Life Agent soon—and see for yourself.

We guarantee tomorrow today.

Young Artists' Competition Set

The Seventh Annual Young Artists' Competition, sponsored by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and Friends of the Philharmonic, will be held March 24th and 25th at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie. The Competition was established in 1965 by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and Claude Montoux, conductor, to discover and encourage young string musicians of concert ability.

Eighteen violinists, violists, and cellists studying at major colleges and conservatories have been accepted for the competition. During the three levels of audition, the entrants who must provide their own accompanists will be asked to perform a complete concerto from memory, one movement of an unaccompanied selection from memory and one sonata with piano in addition to the compulsory piece.

The judges for this year's Competition are Luis Garcia-Renart principal cellist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic and Vassar College faculty member; Arthur Schuller, violinist with the Philharmonic and former member of the New York Philharmonic; and, Walter Trampler, renowned violist and faculty member at Boston University School of Music.

The finalists will perform a piece chosen by the judges in the public auditions on Sunday, March 25th at 3 p.m. The winner will appear as guest soloist with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic during its 1973-74 subscription series and received a $700 award. Second prize is $300, and other finalists will also receive cash awards.

Cellist Steven Doane, winner of the 1972 Young Artists' Competition, was enthusiastically received in his solo performances with the Philharmonic on Feb. 24-26. Twenty-two year old Doane, a recent graduate of the Oberlin Conservatory, has also appeared with the San Francisco, Ann Arbor, and Cleveland Symphonies. He plans to pursue a career in performance and teaching.

GIRL SCOUT FASHION SHOW — Senior Girl Scout Troop 14 presented a fashion show recently at Kingston High School under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. James Greeson. Some of the models were Karen Olson (L), Kathy Ferrigan, Anne Ferrigan, Carol Guendel and Randee Osgood. Tammy Mayer was also one of the models. Girls from Kingston, Coleman and Ontario High Schools modeled fashions from Wallace's, London's, Nugent's and the Jennifer Shop. Set decorations were contributed by the Kingston Garden Center and Burgevin Florist while George Denise was in charge of set construction. The Bag Pipers, featuring Pete Wagner, Al McDowell and George Mills, furnished music. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Page One Queen Competition Entry Blanks Now Available

This year's Queen will be crowned at the Newspaper Guild's 15th annual Page One Ball Saturday, May 19, at Holiday Inn, Kingston. She and her two attendants will reign over the 1973 Ball which promises to be one of the social highlights of the season.

Entries are now being accepted. Single girls between the ages of 17-24 are invited to compete. Entry blanks are available from Miss Joan L. Woinoski, chairman, UPO Box 805, Kingston. Talent is not a prerequisite. Contestants will be judged on beauty, poise and personality. A panel of judges will make the selections name finalists at a preliminary competition and afternoon reception on Sunday, May 6. Winners will be announced the night of the Ball.

The young lady selected as 1973 Page One Queen will be the recipient of many lovely gifts including a loving cup and an engraved charm bracelet. Additional information concerning the competition is available by contacting the chairman or any member of her committee which includes Joan McNally, Dorothy A. Narel, Doris Parslow, Rosemarie Casey, Agnes Campbell.

Page One Queen competitions have stimulated interest in the community for many years. At a preliminary contest held a few years back at Wiltwyck Country Club, more than 50 girls vied for the crown. Area young ladies who have served as queens include Doris Parslow Mauro of Kingston, Kathleen Vett of New Paltz, Jacqueline Rethier of Lake Katrine, Loretta Budd of New Paltz, Pamela Downey of Mt. Marion, Carol Malin of High Falls, Mary Chambers of Kingston, Sara Imhoff of Saugerties, Bonni Hall of Kingston, Kathleen Pritchett of Saugerties, Dale Fries of Saugerties.

Among the many contestants were the former Pamela Davis who served as Miss Saugerties of 1966, and the former Janis Johnson, Miss Ulster County of 1968.

Another highlight of the Ball will be the presentation of awards honoring outstanding personalities in various fields.

Dinner reservations may be made with Dorothy Narel, chairman, or Robert Bain,

OUTLOOK FOR MILK, CEREALS, AND COFFEE

Another gain in milk production is anticipated in 1973. The number of cows producing milk will continue to decline, but slowly. The amount of milk produced per cow will continue to increase by a small amount and offset the declining cow numbers. Retail prices for milk may average nearly a cent per quart higher in 1973 than in 1972, especially during the first half of the year. Higher feed costs may be a factor in higher milk prices. Milk prices later in the year will depend in part on government price supports to be announced later. Increased use of cheese, frozen desserts, and low-fat dairy products is expected to continue, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist.

Prices for cereal and bakery products will probably show a substantial increase this year, reflecting the effects of record wheat exports last year. Large sales of wheat to Russia triggered the largest rise in wheat and flour prices since 1947. Bakers felt the sudden rise in wheat and flour prices. Recently the Price Commission granted bakeries large price increases to compensate them for rising grain prices.

Retail prices for coffee will probably be well above last year in anticipation of a smaller coffee harvest in Brazil this spring.

Current Market Report
Meats — Rising prices for beef and pork continue to put a strain on most homemakers' budgets. Live animal prices keep edging up, with cattle prices setting record high levels. Although the supply of beef is greater than a year ago, the increase is not enough to offset gains in demand. Consumer incomes are rising, and the supply of other red meats — pork, lamb, and veal — are below last year. Shoppers may turn to some of the lower cost meat cuts, turkeys and broilers, and meat alternates, such as cheese and dry beans and peanuts.

Dairy products — Milk producers are plagued by sharply higher feed costs. As a result, dairy product prices are expected to go higher. However, many dairy products are still economical foods. Shop for skim milk, nonfat dry milk, American and cottage cheese, and similar products.

Peanuts and peanut products — Last fall's peanut crop was another whopper, up nine per cent over the previous harvest. Peanuts can be served in a variety of ways, with peanut butter still one of the most popular spreads. Peanuts are a protein-rich food.

Fruits and vegetables — The selection of reasonably priced fresh fruits and vegetables is limited. Among vegetables, the better values are cabbage, celery, iceberg lettuce, and potatoes. Among fruits, suggested selections include bananas, bagged small apples, grapefruit, and Florida oranges.

A Lovelier You 'Painless' Diet

By MARY SUE MILLER
(First in a series of five columns on how to Take It All Off.)

Are you aware that one in five Americans is overweight? Still a large percentage of overweighters are undernourished? Paradoxical, isn't it?

If you take in overages of starchy, oil-loaded and sweet food, you take on weight but you are not necessarily well-nourished for good health and good looks. Think of the mountains of fried chips and sweet colas consumed during TV sessions. Scientists are actually trying to find ways to fortify our snack foods with proteins for our health's sake.

Proteins and vitamins, too, contribute to our well-being. Ingested in proper balance, the team also slims and maintains pounds lost. Let's get doing!

We'll start with 5 sample breakfasts. You must eat breakfast for energy and to avoid snacking between meals and overeating at lunchtime. The breakfasts that follow come in between 250 and 300 calories. The foods are a correct balance for the reducer of protein, vitamins, carbohydrates, and fat.

a) Tomato juice, 6 oz.; 1 poached egg on slice protein toast, lightly buttered. b) Banana, 1/2 cup skim milk; bran muffin, 1/2 pat butter. c) Orange juice, 4 oz.; toaster waffle, 2 tsp. honey. d) Half grapefruit; dry cereal, skim milk and 1 tsp. sugar. e) Half cup unsweetened applesauce; 2 slices crisp-broiled bacon; 1 soft egg; 1 piece zwieback. Note: Hot tea or coffee, as desired, no sugar.

Painless? You bet! Better clip column for reference.

HUMMEL LOOK-ALIKE — A photograph of James Gerard Hunt, five and a half year old son of Elaine Rosemarie and James Joseph Hunt, Smithtown, N.Y., won a "Hummel" Look-Alike Runner-up Award for the second time. The picture, submitted in the seventh annual search for a "living" Hummel, was selected for its close resemblance to the "M. I. Hummel" figurine, Good Hunting. The contest is sponsored by W. Goebel, West Germany, sole manufacturer of the world-famous figurines which are three-dimensional interpretations of sketches by Sister Maria Innocentia, the artist-nun. Another competition is planned for this summer.

Divorce Bad Enough Without 'Remarks'

DEAR ABBY: After nearly 10 years of marriage, and two lovely children, my husband and I are getting a divorce.

We never washed our dirty linen in public. In fact, we had a good social life and everyone thought we were a very happy couple.

My problem: Since the news of our divorce has become public many of our friends have called to tell me how "smart" I am to call it quits. They say they have known for years that my husband was fooling around, and then they proceed to fill me in on all the sordid particulars.

What am I supposed to say? I surely can't thank them for pouring salt on my wounds with all these urging tales. Yet, I don't know what else to say.

ACHING HEART

DEAR ACHING: Those who would pour salt on your wounds aren't friends. In the future, when someone starts to fill you in, say, "Thanks, but I'm not interested."

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are in our mid-50s. Our two children are married and on their own.

Eight years ago my wife went back to work, but I continued to carry the entire financial load. She banked most of her money in her own name, which was all right with me.

A few years ago I made a will, naming my wife as the sole beneficiary. I told her about it. A few weeks ago I suggested that my wife also draw up a will to avoid complicated legal procedures if, God forbid, she died before me. She acted on my suggestion promptly and informed me that she arranged for everything to be divided equally among me and the two children.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

I felt hurt. Not because of the few miserable dollars involved, but because she knew she was my sole beneficiary, and she didn't choose to make ME hers. After all, what did our children ever do for us? Nothing!

I will refrain from further comment because I feel I am badly in need of yours. Thanks.

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: My guess is that your wife reasoned that if you were to survive her, you'd probably marry again. And should Wife No. 2 survive you, she'd wind up with all your worldly goods, leaving nothing to your children. Since women usually survive their husbands, I am surprised you didn't apply the same reasoning.

DEAR ABBY: I too used to be annoyed with chain letters, but now I enjoy them. It gives me an excuse to write the following letter to the sender:

Dear Friend,
Thanks for the chain letter. My favorite hobby is copying chain letters and mailing them off to all my friends. I also enjoy sending money to the stranger on the top of the list.

In return for your kindness, I am sending you this REVERSE chain letter. Make a copy of this letter and send it to the person whose name is above yours on the chain letter you sent to me. You must do this within 24 hours of receipt of this letter. The person receiving it must do the same within 24 hours, and if the chain is not broken, the letter will eventually get back to the jacks who started this whole thing.

I urge you not to break this chain. Mr. J. V. Greedy broke the chain, and the very next day his mother-in-law came to live with him.

Garden Club Meeting Slated

Saugerties Society of Little Gardens will meet Wednesday at Methodist Church at 1:30 p.m. Mrs. Marion Harding of New Paltz will present a program on "Gardening for Survival and World Gardening."

Mrs. Harding's interest in World Gardening has taken her to Greece and twice to British Honduras to observe the World Gardening Program in action. She served as Third District World Gardening chairman for two years, was president of the New Paltz Garden Club, and an appointed member of the New Paltz Conservation of the Environment Commission.

Mrs. Harry Ohley, an associate member, renewed old friendships at the group's March 9 meeting. Mrs. John Whittenor, president, opened the meeting with the Garden Prayer. Mrs. Hugo Knauer, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Dr. Irwin Conroe from Slingerlands. Dr. Conroe gave an interesting slide-lecture program on Annuals and Perennials. A question-answer session took place afterwards.

A short business meeting was held at the conclusion of the program. Refreshments were served by Mrs. George Jorgensen and her committee, Miss Jane Ziegler, Mrs. Robert Finger, and Mrs. John Jagodzinski.

Wednesday's meeting is open to all Garden Club members as well as all other interested persons.

Recent Christening

Harold Edmund Van Etten III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Van Etten Jr., of West Saugerties, was christened on Sunday, March 4 at St. Gregory's Episcopal Church in Woodstock. The Rev. David W. Arnold officiated. Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Haslam of Mt. Marion.

Harold, the III, was born at the Benedictine Hospital on January 26, the day after his mother's birthday. He tipped the scales at eight pounds, three and one-half ounces.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Van Etten Sr. of Veteran. Great grandmother is Mrs. Marguerite Van Etten. Material Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon W. Hill of Blue Mountain.

Besides the grandparents, several aunts, uncles, and cousins were present at the ceremony. All were invited to the home of the parents, for a party after the christening.

Election Planned; Speaker Named

A slate of officers for the coming year will be presented at the Tuesday meeting of the Parents Association of St. Joseph's School, Kingston. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Middle School cafeteria.

The Rev. Andrew T. Cusack, assistant spiritual director for the Diocesan Clergy of Bridgeport, Conn., will be guest speaker. His topic will be "The Young Adolescent, His Faith and Communication in the Home."

All members are urged to attend.

Ulster Proved It Was Good, Solid Fourth

By IRA FUSFELD

STONE RIDGE

An obvious question based on Ulster County Community College's fourth place finish in the NJCAA basketball tournament: Are the Senators the fourth best junior college team in the country?

"At least fourth best," claimed coach Mike Perry Sunday as the UCC's plane flew to New York and a gala reception in Kingston and Stone Ridge. "We were only beaten by the champions."

Perry had expressed some doubts earlier in the week during the Hutchinson, Kansas, tourney as to whether or not Ulster was in over its head. But by the time Saturday night's final round had ended, and the well-coached, defensive-minded Mercer, N.J., team had upset Hutchinson, 80-61, Mike had changed his mind.

"The way Hutch played in the beginning of the week, I didn't think they'd get beat. But by the end of the week, I rejuvenated my thinking."

"I'm convinced," he continued, "that coaching is a very important factor. The teams that were well coached stayed around. The others didn't." Hutchinson coach Gene Keady was particularly embarrassed in the championship game. Possessing what all observers agreed was the most talent in the tourney, his team was victimized time and time again by Mercer's finely tuned quintet.

In that game, Mercer, led by tourney MVP Mel Weldon, continually capitalized on Hutch's inability to adjust on defense. Many of the Vikings' baskets during a key span in the first half and another after intermission were on the "backdoor" play which frees a man for easy layups.

Mercer had handed Ulster its only loss, 75-62, and had whipped the Senators, 84-77, during the regular season.

"I think we could have beaten Mercer in Hutch if I had some time to work on an alternate offense," Perry theorized. "When Platte played us in the first game, Mercer scouted us and saw how we reacted to a zone. Then they made the proper adjustments for us."

"As it is," he added, "it's amazing we only lost by 13 the way we played."

Perry figures that the Senators of this year differed from the ones who were eliminated in two straight last March in the confidence department.

"I definitely brought a more confident team in terms of the philosophy that they were as good or better than anyone else," he said.

The Senators' coach was making his last trip to Hutchinson for at least a year. He'll be going on a one year leave of absence in May, studying for his doctorate degree in either recreation, education, or administration. At the same time, he'll be assisting a major college coach, Florida State and Western Kentucky are the leading candidates for Mike's services. The two major college prospects from the Senators—Coleman Link and Jack Knowles—will be among Perry's immediate concern.

"Ultimately the final decision as to what college they'll go to is their own," Perry declared. "I'd like to see Link go to L.I.U. and Jack to Niagara. They'd be instant starters, they'd get good publicity, and recognition."

"And," he smiled, "they'd get to play in the Garden, it sounds selfish, but I'd like to see them play."

Among the other things on Perry's mind during the course of the next week are formal announcement of the acting varsity baseball coach; the completing of next year's schedules; and the preparing of Dean of Students David Bartlett for his one year tenure as acting athletic director.

Then, maybe in a week, maybe longer, Perry can sit back and contemplate his accomplishments, not the least of which was coaching the fourth best NJCAA basketball team in the country.

Pick Chestnut on All-Star Team

STONE RIDGE As expected, Ike Chestnut was the only Senator to be named to the all-NJCAA tournament team following Saturday night's championship game at Hutchinson, Kansas.

And as expected, Ike accepted the honor, the first of this nature ever accorded an Ulster player, with modesty. "I would have liked to see Coleman Link get it," said the well-spoken freshman from Philadelphia. "but I guess they gave it to me because I was more consistent."

That he was. When all-star committees of this nature do their picking, they do so on the basis of what they see, not on reputation. One bad game and you're dead.

Link had his bad game against Mercer. Chestnut didn't have any. Ike's long distance shooting in clutch situations was particularly impressive in each Ulster encounter and more than likely sold the voters.

One college coach from Georgia just couldn't believe that Henry Nixon, not Chestnut, was considered to be the best shooter on the team. But Nixon, who just didn't have it all week, was overshadowed by his teammate.

Named with Chestnut to the 10-man club were: Greg Ashorn, North Greenville; George Jackson, Dalton; Rudy Jackson, Hutchinson; Ron Johnson, Three Rivers; Roger Morningstar, Olney; Phil Spence, Vincennes; Larry Warren, Brevard; Mel Weldon, Mercer; and Teko Wynder, Hutchinson. Weldon was MVP, and Mercer coach Howie Landa took coach-of-the-year honors. The sportsmanship award went to Morningstar of Olney, while Phil Garrett of North Greenville was named for the Obie Award as the best "small" player in the tournament.

Police cars, fire trucks, city dignitaries, and plenty of fans were on hand to greet the team when it reached the Kingston Thruway exit Sunday night. Mayor Francis R. Koenig presented coach Mike Perry with the key to the city. At the reception that followed on campus, hundreds more jammed into the school's cafeteria to cheer the team individually, watch game films, and listened to the Kingston Indians Drum and Bugle Corps.

The players had heard that some celebration had been planned, but upon arriving in Kingston and seeing the large crowds, most were stunned. Had not the team been forced to wait three hours in Wichita before making plane connections, the reception would have been earlier and the gathering, presumably, would have been larger.

Mike Perry Sr., Dean of Admissions Charles Skenk, and young Gerard Perry, who were in Hutchinson all week for the tourney, were stranded in Ohio Sunday by bad weather. The trio had left Hutch by car Saturday afternoon and had hoped to be back for Sunday's welcoming festivities.

The biggest thing to hit Hutchinson last week besides the tournament was Playboy magazine. The Playmate of the Month is a Hutch native. She was in town to see friends and upon being the subject of a page one story in the town paper as well as a series of radio interviews when she showed up at the championship game.

Knight Has Time To Fathom UCLA

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"I'm not ready to think about UCLA yet," says Indiana Coach Bob Knight. "not until next week anyway."

Knight's sixth-ranked Hoosiers, who captured the National Collegiate Athletic Association Midwest Regional basketball title with a 72-65 victory over Kentucky on Saturday, have a week to figure out just how to handle a dynasty.

The Hoosiers, 21-5, move into Saturday's national semifinals at St. Louis for a match with the mighty Bruins, winners of 73 straight games—including the 54-39 West Regional championship over San Francisco—and 34 in a row in NCAA play-off competition.

"I'm glad to have a week to prepare for them rather than a couple of days," Knight said of the nation's top-ranked team.

Before that clash, though, there's an equally important matter to be settled—which team the winner will meet in the title game a week from tonight.

Preceding the UCLA-Indiana game, Ernie DiGregorio and Providence's fourth-ranked Friars, 103-89 victors over Maryland in the East Regional, face 12th-ranked Memphis State, which won the Midwest crown with a 92-72 romp over Kansas State.

On Saturday night, the Guilford, N.C., Quakers beat Maryland-Eastern Shore 99-96 for the championship of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and became the first unseeded team to win the title in the NAIA's 36 tournaments.

Tonight, meanwhile, the National Invitation Tournament's first-round play concludes in New York's Madison Square Garden with Rutgers facing Minnesota and Manhattan opposing Alabama.

In the weekend's opening round action it was Notre Dame 69, Southern California 65; Louisville 97, American 84; North Carolina 82, Oral Roberts 63; Massachusetts 78, Missouri 71; Fairfield 80, Marshall 76; and Virginia Tech 65, New Mexico 63.

Against Kentucky, the Hoos-siers blew a 13-point halftime lead and fell behind with less than eight minutes to play. "I'm just happy that our kids didn't crack from the pressure of blowing the lead and getting behind," Knight said. "And proud that we were able to regain the momentum we had lost."

Kentucky went to a zone defense to get back in the game. Then Knight decided to move freshman Quinn Buckner from the point to the high post and the Hoosiers were on their way to St. Louis.

Tommy Curtis, the 5-foot-11 UCLA guard, came off the bench midway through the first half, with the Bruins trailing 16-7, put them on the attack and helped pull out the victory over San Francisco's 19th-ranked Dons.

Pearson: Wasn't Easy

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (UPI) — Though he took the lead from the starting flag and held it for 491 of the race's 492 laps, David Pearson, winner of Sunday's Carolina 500, said it was hard.

Pressured only once in the final laps of the contest, Pearson, who qualified for the pole position, was a full lap ahead of his closest contender, Richard Petty driving the blue and orange STP-Dodge, when Petty retired after 386 laps with engine problems.

The Daytona and Richmond winner pitted three times under the caution flag attempting to find the trouble and finally parked his car in the garage area after a fourth try at the one-mile banked oval.

Pearson, who collected $84,975 for his four hours and 13 minutes on the track, averaged 118.649 mph over the 500 miles.

Second place finisher in the eighth annual contest was Cale Yarborough in a Chevrolet followed one lap back by Buddy Baker. Two laps off the pace and in fourth was Bobby Allison in a Chevrolet and in fifth, five laps off the pace, was Richard Brooks, 1969 NASCAR rookie of the year.

"Naturally it's a great big relief to see someone like that go in," Pearson said of Petty's failure to finish.

The black-haired Spartanburg, S. C. native slowed after Petty dropped out but picked up the pace a few laps later.

His only scare in the contest came in the final laps when the race's seventh and final caution flag came out.

Leading Yarborough by a lap, Pearson hit a piece of debris entering the first turn, and damaged his right front tire. He pitted for new rubber and thundered back out on the track just in front of Yarborough. The gap opened to five seconds when the Mercury blew down the final straight for the checked flag.

Yarborough, troubled all afternoon with seat problems, was constantly out of the car while pitted as the Junior Johnson crew frantically attempted to repair and adjust the seat to take the strain off Yarborough's shoulder.

BR Seniors Meet

An important meeting of the Kingston Babe Ruth Senior baseball league will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion building in Kingston. All interested persons are invited.

Simply say "C.C."

Today, more men and women everywhere welcome Canadian Club. New friends appreciate its gentle manners. The pleasing way it behaves in mixed company. Old friends admire its unmistakable character. Colbert Survives

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jim Colbert has a strange philosophy, possibly a unique approach to the game of golf.

"My reaction to anything that happens on the golf course is no reaction," the balding little veteran said after his teeter-totter triumph in the Greater Jacksonville Open.

"There are no birdies or bogeys, no eagles or double bogeys. They are only numbers. If you can get that way you can play this game. It's my way. I did it (won) the hard way. I kept my cool, I did not react to the adversities of the game."

He had those aplenty. Colbert bogeyed four of his first five holes. He opened with a two stroke lead in the mild, sunny weather of the final day, then found himself four strokes behind Jimmy Wiechers after only five holes.

He regained the lead, built it to two strokes, lost it and dropped behind again, regained

A Funny Way To Get There

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three Fairfield university students dribbled a basketball 70 miles from Fairfield, Conn., to see their team play Marshall Sunday in a first round game in the National Invitation Tournament.

Jim Collins, Jim Groom and Gary Dettrich, the three students, started in Fairfield at noon Saturday and dribbled through the night. They met 1,400 people, who came from Fairfield to see the Stags, outside Madison Square Garden just before the start of the game at 3 p.m.

Collins, Groom and Dettrich came out onto the court, followed by the crowd, and took layups before the game with the team. Groom is the brother of guard George Groom, Fairfield's high scorer this season.

JACKIE KNOWLES

STONE RIDGE a brilliant 1972-73 season for the Senators' sensational field general. He was selected first team Mid-Hudson Conference and first team Region XV. He was on the Region XV All-Star team and Most Valuable in Region XV and MHC. In his freshman season (1971-72) Knowles was MVP in the Region XV tournament which was the springboard for Ulster's first trip ever to the Nationals.

In addition, he is credited with all-time Ulster records in assists for single game, career and season, but the final statistics have not been pinpointed.

Knowles completed his two-year career at Ulster with 863 points, but there was never any question that he could have attained the 1,000 barrier, had he concentrated more on scoring.

She Wants to Be a Trooper, Too

Bonnie Barringer—657 Set

By STEVE KANE

KINGSTON — Bonnie Barringer cruised through the Mid City Lanes' Friendship League with only one open frame in three games and crashed into the Area Woman's Ten with a 657 trio, the second best series recorded thus far this season.

It marked a career first for the high swinging, 21-year-old miss. She led things off with the night as six other Friendship 213, matched it in the second game, and capped the series with a 231. She strung four strikes together in the final with fired 528. Other scores were Esther Tremper's 526, Betty Egan's 520, Joan Smith's 505 and Sugar Senor's 503. Silver Lake Dairy with 897 and Sperling Real Estate with 2555 paced the team categories.

"I don't know how I did it," laughed the daughter of city patrolman, George Barringer. Her Friendship average before the slam was 163, but "it should go up now."

Bonnie bowls in the Friendship "just for fun" with her mother, and for serious competition she operates in the Women's Major where her average is currently 169. Though this was her best series in six years of the sport, her all-time single game high is 238.

Bonnie graduated from Kingston High School and since then has worked at the Roland A. Augustine Insurance Agency. But that may not last much longer. Saturday she took the qualifying exam for the New York State Police, the first such test ever open to women candidates.

Why? Why does a girl pretty enough to have been a Daily Freeman Valentine Queen want to be a trooper?

"It just interests me," she explained. "They talk about it around the house all the time."

"They" are father George and brother Tom, both members of the Kingston city force, who have been sources of encouragement to Bonnie. "The guys say I'll pass it. I've read all the manuals and past exams, but that's about all the studying you can do."

Bonnie traces her interest in police work back to her childhood, when she was seven and her father began his career. "I went through his equipment the first day he came home and broke his handcuffs."

She points out the need for women in the state organization, noting not all criminals are men. But a slight sigh is evident when she says, "I'd probably be just a dispatcher." On her application, however, the box marked trooper rather than the one labeled clerical has a check.

Even should her trooper bid fall through, Bonnie said the municipal force is still a possibility. She admits, "I've thought about it for quite some time. It just really interests me."

And what does Patrolman Barringer have to say about all this?

"I know I used to take her fishing, but this is ridiculous."

Heating Up For Crozier

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer Buffalo's Roger Crozier is a pretty good National Hockey League goaltender and he's not bad in the meteorological sciences either.

With the regular season running out of games and the Sabres locked in a pressure cooker struggle for fourth place and a playoff berth in the NHL East, Crozier is noticing a change in the climate around his net.

"It seems to get hotter and hotter out there on the ice," said Crozier after backstopping the Sabres to a 5-1 victory over Toronto Sunday night. "The games get tougher and tougher."

The victory kept Buffalo tied for fourth place with Detroit which shut out Chicago 2-0 Sunday. The Sabres have six games to play and the Red Wings have seven left.

Elsewhere in the NHL Sunday, the New York Rangers trimmed St. Louis 3-1. California shut out Minnesota 2-0, Montreal and Philadelphia tied 4-4 and Boston ripped Atlanta 7-1.

In Saturday's NHL action, Buffalo tied Montreal 3-3. Toronto outlasted the New York Islanders 7-5. The New York Rangers trimmed St. Louis 6-1. Vancouver whipped Pittsburgh 6-1. Atlanta edged Chicago 3-2 and Minnesota topped Los Angeles 4-3.

In the World Hockey Association Saturday, New England shut out Philadelphia 4-0. Alberta blanked Quebec 3-0. Chicago downed the New York Raiders 6-3, and Los Angeles sloped Cleveland 2-0.

On Sunday in the WHA, Ottawa whipped Winnipeg 4-2 and New York edged Houston 3-2 in overtime.

Buffalo ended an eight-game winless streak thanks to two goals from the French Connection Line of Rene Robert, Rick Martin and Gil Perreault and some airtight goaltending by Crozier.

"Roger Crozier won that game for them," said Toronto Coach John McEllan. "He made some big saves."

The Sabres' big line didn't hurt with Martin and Robert each scoring goals and Perreault picking up three assists.

Buffalo Coach Joe Crozier was enthused by the Sabres' three-point weekend against Toronto and Montreal. "If we keep going like we played tonight and last night against Montreal," said Crozier, "there's no question but we'll make the playoffs."

Detroit may have something to say about that. Goalie Roy Edwards turned in his sixth shutout of the season as the Red Wings beat Chicago for the first time in 15 regular season games since April 1, 1970, and hung on to its share of fourth place.

Just ahead of Buffalo and Detroit, Boston and New York are staging their own little struggle for second place in the East behind Montreal. The Bruins held a two point edge with six to play, one less than the Rangers.

Philadelphia picked up a point on Minnesota in the battle for second place in the West. The Flyers tied Montreal while the North Stars were being blanked by California.

The playoff tangle in the WHA East stayed tight with Ottawa moving into fourth place tie with Philadelphia by whipping Winnipeg while New York took over third place, just two points ahead of the Nationals and Blazers.

Gene Roddenberry Ends Exile

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Roddenberry, a quiet man with an incredible background, quit television 2½ years ago when NBC cancelled the "Star Trek" series he created.

While the series' quite vocal fans raged over the cancellation, Roddenberry wrote a few movies, got married, and, as he puts it, "played golf around the world."

But touring assorted courses proved a bit dull for a man who in his 51 years has been: A B-17 bomber pilot in the South Pacific, a Pan Am pilot on DC4s and Lockheed Constellations, a Los Angeles police sergeant, and one of the most respected writers in television today.

Roddenberry's self-imposed exile from the tube ends Friday night when CBS broadcasts his "Genesis II," a 90-minute pilot he created for a proposed series. It is set in the year 2133.

Unlike "Star Trek," the new show is entirely about the planet at earth, a war-ravaged planet in which civilization has collapsed and broken down into isolated communities with no links to each other.

It's a grim scene faced by the show's main character, a young NASA scientist awakened from a suspended animation test that had begun 160 years earlier and was to last only a few weeks.

Roddenberry said he was encouraged to start writing for television again because when he came out of semiretirement "studio heads and the networks were saying, 'What have you got that's different?'"

"This is the first time this has happened to me in almost 20 years in the business and I think it's going to greatly improve TV in years to come," he said.

Another factor in his return to television, he said, was that "I discovered, to my absolute consternation, that playing golf seven days a week wasn't really as much fun as sitting behind a desk."

Roddenberry said he felt a combination of fatigue and bitterness when NBC cancelled "Star Trek" at the end of a three-year run.

"To do a show as complex as that, to work 14 hours a day for three years — you've made a huge emotional expenditure as well as a physical one," he said softly.

He grinned when asked why he was returning to the television wars.

"Well, I tried features and they were fun," he said. "But I guess there's something perverse in me that misses the afternoon crises of television."

"I think it's also common sense. How can a writer ignore a medium that hits 50 million people? You just can't."

We can't be sure how the play would have gone at two no-trump. North might well have made it or he might well have gone down one. The important thing to realize is that there is no way that East and West could have picked up that tidy 500 points against a two no-trump contract.

Maj. Thompson Wears Big Smile, Green Beret

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Wearing a green beret and filled with "sheer delight," the longest-held prisoner of war in U.S. history flew home today with 25 other freed American POWs to see his family for the first time since 1963.

Maj. Floyd Thompson, 39, of New Milford, N.J., wore a big smile and a new Green Beret uniform at his farewell, hugging and kissing members of the small crowd of wellwishers on hand to see the POWs off. He clutched the hand of a 9-year-old boy one day older than his own son, whom he never has seen.

Among the other prisoners bound for the United States was a young Marine who was officially declared dead years ago on a Vietnam battlefield.

Pfc. Ronald Ridgeway of Houston, Tex., was reported killed near Khe Sanh in January, 1968. His mother, Mildred, attended his "funeral," but said she never believed the remains sent to her and buried were those of her son.

Two planes carrying the ex-POWs, released last week by North Vietnam, the Viet Cong and China, cleared all POWs from this "Operation Homecoming" headquarters. Fifty-three other freed POWs arrived on the U.S. mainland Sunday aboard flights from Clark.

Officials are now awaiting the last batch of 146 American prisoners to be set free, presumably by the end of March as stipulated in the Vietnam truce agreement.

One prisoner was carried onto his hospital plane today. Army Maj. Theodore Gostas, whose wife lives in Sheridan, Wyo., was under "light sedation" but the nature of his illness was unknown.

Thompson was the senior officer aboard the first flight of 12 men that left for McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey. His C141 Starlifter was scheduled to arrive at McGuire at 5 p.m. EST today. The second C141 carrying the other 14 men left for Travis Air Force Base, Fairfield, Calif., two hours after Thompson's plane lifted off.

Thompson took from the crowd blond Billy Peebles, son of an Air Force captain based at Clark, and paraded him before reporters and officers at the farewell ceremony.

Billy, Thompson said, was born the day he was captured by the Viet Cong—March 26, 1964. His own son, youngest of four children, was born one day after the Communists captured him.

Ridgeway said little to anyone, but shook hands up and down the restraining rope holding back the small crowd. He showed flashes of a smile, but mainly retained the somber expression he wore when he arrived March 16 from Hanoi.

Two rows of campaign ribbons and a Purple Heart adorned his khaki Marine uniform as he hugged and kissed about a dozen teen-age girls in the crowd.

EVACUATION FROM FLOOD WATERS — While others wait their turn, standing on high ground and steps, rescue workers, using a small rowboat, evacuate two families with several small children from their flooded homes in the Harbor Island area near the Detroit River on the city's near southeast side.

High winds, rain and snow have combined to make the worst flooding conditions along the Detroit River, Lake St. Clair and the Saginaw Bay area in nearly a century. Over 1,000 persons have been forced to leave their homes so far. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Winter Packs a Late Wallop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

High winds, angry Great Lakes and a punishing snowfall in the East, intensive flooding in the South, rain and snow in the West — winter isn't through with the United States just yet.

A storm walloped the Great Lakes region, leaving as much as 21 inches of snow in lower Michigan, and flooded towns on the Ohio shores of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

The cleanup continued today as snows lingered in the East and winds from 35 to 75 miles per hour lashed 20-foot waves on the Great Lakes and 10-foot snow drifts ashore.

Gale warnings were posted for lakes Huron, Erie and Ontario and for the Atlantic coast from New Jersey to Maine as the storm moved out of the U.S.

About 5,000 persons were stranded on highways in Lower Michigan and many roads remained closed early today. Interstate 94 was closed west of Marshall, Mich.

About 400 persons were put pound areas of the lower Mississippi Valley, Mississippi, Michigan. Flood waters in Bay County were receding and residents began to return to their homes. No deaths were directly attributed to the storms, but several persons suffered heart attacks while awaiting rescue.

Dozens of families in the Rochester, N.Y., suburb of Greece, one of the hardest hit by lake waves, remained with friends and relatives Sunday night. Lake Ontario is at its highest level since 1952.

Flood waters continue to inundate areas of the lower Mississippi Valley, Mississippi, Alabama and Tennessee. Property damage is estimated at $35 million and more than 1,000 families have been forced from their homes in Chattanooga, Tenn. Tennessee's governor has asked President Nixon to declare 39 counties a disaster area.

In Mississippi, Gov. Bill Waller estimated flood damage at $25 million, and said the Delta region was "almost one solid sheet of water." Nearly 1,000 persons were forced out of their homes at Columbus, and 400 at Greenwood. All major roads to Columbus, with the exception of U.S. 82, were closed.

An intense storm off the Washington coast has brought rain to the Pacific Northwest. Gale warnings are up from the northern California to the Washington coasts. Winds were clocked at 60 miles per hour.

China Gets Chance to Be Heard

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Fifteen persons notified the U.N. Security Council that they plan to speak today at the organization's first session in Latin America, but the one most delegates were curious to hear was Huang Hua, the ambassador of China.

His speech gives China its first opportunity since joining the United Nations to discuss publicly an American hemisphere question of mutual interest to the United States and the so-called third world.

The question is the Canal Zone, which the United States has controlled since 1903.

China and the Soviet Union, another of the 15 speakers today, were expected to endorse Panama's call for an end to American control of the Canal Zone.

The Security Council conference is in its third day, after taking a weekend break that interrupted two days of tough talking between the United States and Cuba on U.S. policy in the hemisphere. Cuba said the United States uses the Canal Zone as a center of hemispheric subversion.

The theme of the conference is peace and security in the region, but the role of the United States there so far has dominated the discussion.

Panama and Peru are sponsoring a draft resolution that would in effect call for U.S. withdrawal from the Canal Zone.

The Panama-Peru draft would call on the United States to "execute promptly" a new treaty giving Panama total jurisdiction over the 10-mile-wide, 50-mile-long Canal Zone.

Mysterious Prisoner... Nobody Doing Any Talking

MARCH AFB, Calif. (UPI) — The U.S. government has found out what Bobby Joe Keesee, the mysterious Texan, was doing on his private mission into North Vietnam. But neither the government nor Keesee will talk about it.

Keesee, 39, of Amarillo, stunned U.S. officials handling the return of POWs from Hanoi when his name appeared on a prisoner list. At first, no one recognized the name, and no record could be found of any such American's disappearance. "We really weren't too sure who it was until we shook hands with him in Hanoi," said Charles P. Murphy, State Department officer who accompanied Keesee back to the United States.

Murphy indicated the government now knows the story behind Keesee's disappearance. Murphy said he had discussed the matter with Keesee but it is "inappropriate at this time" to go into details.

Keesee "has said he does not want to talk to newsmen at present," Murphy said. He is a "free agent," no charges have been placed against him, and he can come and go as he likes, Murphy said.

Murphy stressed that Keesee, who has said in the past he undertook a mission to Cuba for the CIA, was not an employee or an agent of the U.S. government at any time.

Keesee told the CIA story when he was brought to trial in 1962 on a variety of charges stemming from the escapade, which included a stolen light plane and bad checks. He was found guilty and sentenced to five years in prison.

Officials of a charter flying service in Bangkok, Thailand, say that Keesee chartered a light plane on Sept. 18, 1970, and once aloft, pulled a pistol and forced the pilot to land him on a beach in North Vietnam.

Murphy said there is no official confirmation of that version.

62 Dead in Viet Plane Crash

SAIGON (UPI) — Police said all 62 persons aboard an Air Vietnam DC6 passenger plane being flown by two Americans were killed today when the aircraft apparently blew apart in flight and crashed in South Vietnam's Central Highlands.

South Vietnamese police officials said there were no survivors at the scene of the crash, about 142 miles northeast of Saigon.

The four-engine plane was en route from Saigon to Ban Me Thuot when it crashed. No cause was given for the accident but Pham Duong Hien, director of public affairs, said the weather was "very bad."

An airline source said the green-and-white propeller-driven plane "went straight in from about 2,000 feet while making a landing approach. You know what that will do to a plane."

He said there were no final messages by radio from the two American fliers at the controls, whose identities were not immediately known.

"When your plane blows apart in the air, you aren't going to be sending any messages. You're going to be getting ready to meet your maker," he said.

Hien said there were a "few" foreigners aboard the plane but he did not have a breakdown by nationality. He said the list included 50 adults, three infants, four children and five crew members.

Airline sources said two of the passengers were Japanese. One was identified as Hiromi Wakabayashi, a freelance correspondent on assignment for the weekly magazine of the Tokyo newspaper Mainichi. The other was a language student who was studying Vietnamese.

Hien said the plane was about 10 minutes away from making its landing at Ban Me Thuot when the crash occurred. He said the pilot gave no indication of trouble.
